

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for integrating a personal information device (PID) on a mobile computer that includes activating a first mode to display data originating with the 5 PID in a first display area of a display. The mobile computer switches to a second mode to display data associated with the second mode in a second display area of the display.

30071750.doc

0997204-12804